Transforming Workplace Mission: Engaging a Shifting Work Ethos

Saturday 14 September at 9am-5pm

Many of us have an inkling that our daily labours fall short of God's purposes for us. It's time that God's people grapple with how we shape, enable and support everyday Christians to faithfully reflect God's work in their daily challenges and joys in shifting work cultures. This conference invites you – lay and clergy – to bring your stories and struggles for this purpose. Collaborating in keynotes, workshops and panel discussions, we will start to strategise ways for making 'the Word of God fully known' through our daily work.

The Conference is presented by the Anglican Diocese of Melbourne (ADOM) Social Responsibilities Committee (SRC) in conjunction with Ethos: Evangelical Alliance (EA) Centre for Christianity and Society. Sponsored by the Melbourne Anglican Foundation and EA Insurance.

Keynote speakers: Kara Martin and Dr Gordon Preece. Participating Bishop: Genieve Blackwell.

Dr Gordon Preece is Director of Ethos, including the Australasian Religious Press Association's Best Publication Zadok Perspectives, and Chair, Melbourne Anglican Diocese SRC. He is former Director of three university professional ethics centres, Lead Minister of two Anglican parishes, Director of Urban Seed homelessness ministry and Senior Policy Officer Catholic Social Services Victoria. His twelve books include Changing Work Values, Marketplace Ministry (Lausanne) and The Viability of the Vocation Tradition.

Childcare available. Lunch provided.
